Seafield Courtyard Regulations

Ashes Lairs

Exclusive Right of Burial of Ashes

- 1 The Lair in which the exclusive right of burial has been granted shall be kept and used solely as a burial place for ashes and no other use shall be made.
- 2 The party in whose favour the right of burial has been granted ["the Proprietor"] (and his/her heirs or successors) may not dispose of or sell this right without our written permission. However, the Proprietor may assign the right as part of their heritable estate.
- 3 In cases where there is no will, the right of burial shall pass to the eldest child. Where there are no children, the eldest representative according to the rules of heritable succession of the Law of Scotland shall succeed.
- 4 No heir (or successor) of the Proprietor shall have any right or interest in the Lair, or exercise that right, until he/she has provided satisfactory evidence to the Company.
- 5 The exclusive right of burial will be granted for a period of twenty five years. At the end of this period the heirs or successors of the Proprietor may renew the lease for a period and fee fixed at that time by the Company. If it is not reasonably possible to trace the heirs or successors, or if the heirs or successors decline the option to renew the lease, then the exclusive right of burial in the Lair shall default to the Company. The Company will then be entitled to apply for permission to exhume the cremated remains and dispose of the them in a dignified fashion according to the methods of disposal of cremated remains available at that time.
- 6 The Proprietor (and his/her heirs and successors) will only be entitled to exercise the right of burial upon payment of the interment fees which will be fixed from time to time by the Company.

Erection of Memorials

- 7 No enclosing walls, fence or building shall be erected on or in the vicinity of the Lair in which the exclusive right of burial has been granted.
- 8 No memorial other than that supplied by the Company shall be erected on the ground.
- 9 Any subsequent work to the memorial, or replacement of the memorial, must be instructed through the Company.
- 10 Freshly cut flowers may be placed in a receptacle provided by the Company, but no other memorials may be placed.

General

- 11 Visitors to the Cemetery and to the Courtyard are expected to conduct themselves in an appropriate manner. Dogs must be kept on a leash at all times, and must not be allowed to intimidate other visitors, or the local wildlife. The Superintendent has the right to refuse admission to the Cemetery and to the Courtyard.
- 12 The Proprietor (and his/her heirs or successors) will be bound by such rules and regulations as the Company may from time to time bring into effect.
